

Call for Papers

(BOAS insights), Issue #2, 2022

The editorial board of BOAS insights seeks papers for the second issue of a new interdisciplinary journal

BOAS insights is an online, open-access, peer-reviewed journal with articles as well as reviews which cover a variety of themes across Asia, Africa and the Mediterranean including, but not limited to, those that deal with the contemporary and classical languages, literatures, religions, politics, material culture and visual arts of those regions, as well as with their former and contemporary communities and networks.

The editors especially encourage submissions, which integrate multidisciplinary approaches in order to bridge deeply specialized fields or those that incorporate diverse perspectives. BOAS insights operates out of the Oriental and Asian Studies Department at the University of Bonn and includes an advisory board of senior faculty members. All submissions to the journal are subject to double blind peer-review. As a basic prerequisite, the editors look for research that relies on native language sources and encourage submissions by Black, Indigenous and authors of color.

Topics in our most recent issue ranged from an investigation of capitalist conceptions of time within the Mongolian diaspora to a study of Iranian national identity through the lenses of media and film studies. Full access to the issue is available here:

<http://hdl.handle.net/20.500.11811/9000>

For more information about BOAS insights and our submission guidelines, please visit our website:

<https://www.boas-insights.uni-bonn.de/>

Please submit contributions by February 28, 2022

Send all submissions or queries to: insights@uni-bonn.de

Institut für
Orient- und
Asienwissenschaften

BONN INTERNATIONAL GRADUATE SCHOOL
ORIENTAL AND ASIAN STUDIES

